"The Cabrillo College Strings/Suzuki Music Program has provided a vision and commitment to the importance of music instruction in our lives."

- Dan Martinez
  Dean of Visual & Performing Arts
  Cabrillo College

"The instruction in this program is outstanding! The selection of music is really superior! The faculty takes time to select top rate and new types of music with new techniques. We really enjoy this. The thing I like most about this program is the camaraderie of music students with like interests."

- Elaine Forrester
  Parent

"My son began his music training with Shinichi Suzuki in Japan. He later used those skills in guitar performance. We are very fortunate to have this program in the county."

Private Lessons

This program includes weekly lessons and participation in the Friday Ensembles. Instruction is offered on violin, viola, cello and string bass for students ages 5–18. The Suzuki method and other string methods are based on the natural process through which a child learns language. The parent is often given instruction for coaching the child at home. Setting aside a regular time to work closely with the child at home is the single most important ingredient for success. Emphasis is on the enjoyment of playing for family and friends, and students perform only what they can play well. You can prepare your child for lessons by listening to the tape or CD of Suzuki Volume 1 repertoire.

The schedule and fees for private lessons are arranged with the individual instructor (please see faculty list below for contact information). Students have the opportunity to perform in the recital held at the end of each semester.
