International Affidavits for F-1 Students

Financial Affidavit of Support for F-1 Students

United States visa regulations require all international students to show proof of one's ability to meet all expected expenses during your first year of study. In addition to submitting a bank statement/letter and possibly a "letter of guarantee" if the funds are not in your name, please review and sign the following information.

Current financial expectations:

- Tuition: $8,000
- Living Expenses: $9,000
- Other (health insurance, transportation, books, etc): $2,056
➔ Total cost: $19,056

Please let us know how you expect to pay the predicted costs above by checking the appropriate marks below:

- My own personal bank account bank statement/letter attached*
- Sponsor (friend, family member, government scholarship, etc) bank statement/letter attached*
- Combination of my own account along with funds from a sponsor

Please check each category below stating that you understand and will comply with these requirements:

- The bank statement(s) or bank letter(s) attached show a minimum of $19,056 US Dollars
- The statements/letters I provide are from the last six months
- Any bank accounts that are not in my own name are supplemented with a typed/dated/signed letter from the person who owns the account and provided with my admissions application

If you agree with the statement below, please sign and date:

I verify that the above information is true and accurate to the best of my knowledge. I understand it is my responsibility to show proof of these funds and to pay all expenses in a timely manner.
