Chemical cycling

Elements accumulate in three major places

- In the bodies of living organisms
- In exchange pools: readily available water soluble reserves of a mineral nutrient, such as nitrates in soil water easily taken up by plants, or air such as with $\text{CO}_2$
- Reservoirs: harder to get to places such as bones of animals, shells, deep underground etc.